“ I am so sorry to hear the news of Jill’s passing. Jill and I were neighbors for nearly twenty years. I know her heart was broken after losing her daughter Katie in a terrible accident and was never the same. She suffered and struggled every day after losing Katie. However, she pushed herself forward and reached out to other parents who also had lost a child and she had many wonderful friends who supported her and encouraged her to move forward. In the years following she met a wonderful man, Robert Ayers who became her longtime companion. I witnessed her transformation as the result of the love and support that Robert Ayers provided and shared with her. Jill was happy and found peace and love with him. I was so happy for her that God Blessed her with many years of joy. Jill loved to cook and bake and at Christmas she made the most delicious fudge and cookies and always sent a tray over to our house, next door to her and my son, Michael and I enjoyed every bite. I miss you my dear friend and I know you and Katie are singing together in Heaven. My deepest condolences to Robert, her brother, Scott, all of her family and friends. Sincerely, Pamela Schlichting and Michael. 🦋

“ Jill and I met as a result of our children both accidentally drowning. She was part of an online group of mothers who had lost children due to drowning. She showed me kindness and understanding when I was still reeling from the loss. Thank you, Jill, for all you did to welcome me and other moms into a group no one wanted to be a member of. Your compassion was great and your love was strong. Give our kids big hugs from their moms, until we all meet again.
